

1st August, 2018

Dear Parent,

We have been waiting endlessly for the hot and sultry days to turn into cooler ones and it is inspiring to see that the soaring mercury fails to dim the spirit of our chirpy and bubbly little ones. They were seen indulging in creative activities, practicing with the same vigour and enthusiasm for assemblies, exhibiting great aplomb and energy, learning and discovering new things each day. Mr. Sun has been playing hide and seek with the clouds in the week bygone and water fun has been the highlight with rain showers, water sprinklers and sailing paper boats.

The activities of the month of July focused on teaching the importance of 'cleanliness' in our lives. During the week, stress was laid on not just keeping the body clean but also our classroom, school and the environment clean.

This month is all about talking to our children and instilling in them a deep love for our country – 'PROUD TO BE INDIAN.' The ideals that we would like to instill, an Indian tale we would like to tell, the right way to hoist the flag and of course, the story of the freedom struggle as narrated by a grandparent to his grandchild, will be the focus of circle time in school. Many activities are planned to celebrate India and its rich cultural heritage, giving the little ones a better sense of our beautiful country and developing in them a sense of patriotism - which means love, respect and loyalty towards ones country. Instilling values of patriotism in children will help them become responsible citizens of India.

The highlight of the month will be the creativity week and the little ones will be involved in multiple activities - making different art and craft items related to our universe. The creativity week will culminate in an exhibition where the children's work will be displayed.

August also marks the arrival of the festive season and we look forward to celebrating Independence Day, Rakshabandhan and Friendship Day. Our rich cultural heritage inspires us to live in peace and harmony, rejoicing and celebrating all the festivals with equal fervour, the bond of brotherhood strengthening with each passing year. Many fun filled activities have been planned for children to learn more about these festivals and to educate them about their role as responsible citizens of India. Parents and teachers are role models to the youth of tomorrow and constantly instill in them correct values and a feeling of pride for our country.

Activities for the month
