Keynote session

Speaker:

Mr. Karthik Krishnan, CEO, Britannica Group, Adjunct Professor, Stern School of Business, New York University, USA

Global best practices in using technology and digitization to enhance student outcomes

Speaker:

Dr. Yong Zhao, Foundation Distinguished Professor in the School of Education at the University of Kansas, USA

Description: The session will provide both a systematic approach as well as evidence of improved learning outcomes in a Technology Enabled Learning (TEL) environment by sharing global best practices adopted by some of the finest institutions across the world. The session aims at:

- Assisting educational institutions in adopting appropriate policies
- Strengthening technology infrastructure,
- building the capacities of teachers
- Helping learners to take advantage of the available technology, and
- Undertaking a rigorous approach to the assessment and evaluation of TEL

Experiential learning and pedagogy in the primary school years

Wednesday, 05 Aug 2020, 6.00-7.30pm IST

Speaker:

Dr. Amita Gupta, Professor of Education, Dept. of Curriculum and Instruction, City University of New York, USA

Description: When young students are given an opportunity to engage in the application of what they are learning about, whether in the classroom, field, community, simulated environment or some other out-of-class/hands-on experience, it helps to solidify understanding and align theory and practice. Skill-based and competency-based learning is essential to help young students build 21st century skills and hence the need for an experiential education methodology from early school years becomes important in today's time. In this session, the participants we will gain insights into:

- The importance and interlink between experiential learning and skill development
- Tools and resources to design experiential activities for students and the role of the teacher
- Best practices in implementing this methodology in the classroom

Dr. Susan Rivers, Executive Director and Chief Scientist, iThrive Games Foundation, USA and Former Associate Director, Yale University, USA

Dr. Christopher Liang, Professor and Chair, Department of Education and Human Services, Counseling Psychology Program, Lehigh University, USA

Description: The global situation caused by COVID-19 has emphasized the need to address the mental health, emotional, and psychosocial concerns of the student community during and after the pandemic. Schools across the world have started providing online/virtual opportunities for students to seek help and discuss their queries related to future prospects, career aspirations and the world of work, especially in these changed times. In this session, the participants will gain insights into:

- The role of mental well-being in student development and success
- The urgent need to provide students with in-house support to ensure their mental well-being
- Helping students develop a resilient mind- set

Prescription for the Current "Infodemic": Engaging and Empowering Students through Media Literacy

Monday, 10 Aug 2020, 6.00-7.30pm IST

Speaker:

Dr. Cyndy Scheibe, Founder and Executive Director, Project Look Sharp at Ithaca College, USA

Mr. Chris Sperry, Director of Curriculum & Staff Development, Project Look Sharp at Ithaca College, USA

Description: In today's increasingly complex and media-saturated world, both teachers and students are faced with an "Infodemic" of misinformation. Educators need instructional strategies for teaching the media literacy and critical thinking skills necessary to judge credibility in all types of media messages. Curriculum-driven, question-based constructivist media decoding (CMD) leverages this power by engaging students at all grade levels in collaborative analysis of media messages through participatory learning, inquiry and reflection. In this session, participants will:

- view demonstrations of CMD in classroom settings
- gain access to hundreds of free classroom-ready resources and models for integrating CMD
- find guidelines for using synchronous and asynchronous approaches to engage students in CMD as part of both face-to-face and online learning
